Thanksgiving

THANKSGIVING DAY—in the United States, a day set apart each year, usually the last Thursday in November, for gratitude and praise to God for national mercies.—WEBSTER.

CAIRD says: "A man's religion is the expression of his ultimate attitude to the universe, the summed-up meaning and purport of his whole consciousness of things. In short it is the highest form of his consciousness of himself in his relation to all other things and beings; and if we want a brief abstract and epitome of the man we must seek for it here or nowhere."

And Conklin comments on this by saying: "In this sense religion is a personal matter: every man has his own religion however irreligious it may seem to those whose attitude to the universe is different from his own."

Today no matter what may be a man's religion, he is going to observe Thanksgiving. He may approach it with the spirit in which it was first originated or he may observe it by eating a hearty meal or both.

Citizens of America and especially of California, and more especially of Richmond have good reason to observe Thanksgiving in its fullest meaning. On the threshold of one of the greatest years in its history, yes, well within the boundaries of good times, Richmond can raise its voice in praise, no matter to what type of God it worships in hearty appreciation of the things it is enjoying.

Not only should the hearts of the citizens of this city be filled with praise, but without question the tables will be loaded to overflowing with those material things which set the day apart from any other.

Numerous organizations, not mentioning the horde of individuals who make it a yearly practice are sending out baskets this morning to those less fortunate who for the moment may find themselves unable to fill their tables with the delicacies of the season.

But full table or empty, every citizen within the boundaries of this thriving city can raise his voice in praise and maybe after he has gotten a few words of praise off his heart, he'll enjoy his beef roast or even hash just a little more than he does on the ordinary day.

The statement has frequently been made that with the speed we are living in during the modern age we are not fully aware of all those things for which we should be grateful. To those critics we can only use the old adage "don't display your own ignorance." It is probably due to the fact that the critic who makes that statement is so wrapped up in his own conceited self that he really doesn't know what is going on in the world or because he is so slow that he isn't capable of keeping up with the real feeling of the people, observing only those things which appear upon the surface.

We believe that the world is getting better and that the average per capita of praise that will arise to the heights this day is every bit as great if not greater than that first Thanksgiving, which was observed by the Puritan Fathers.

FRED SWAN IS CHOSEN LEADER OF CARD TEAM

Stanford University's football team during the 1926 season will be guided by a field general, who is a son of Richmond.

The 1926 captain is Fred Haviside Swan, son of Fred Swan of Richmond; and former resident of this city. Swan was elected to the captaincy at a meeting of the football squad at Stanford University yesterday.

Fred Swan has been playing star guard for the Cardinals during the past two seasons, and last year he was considered the greatest guard on the Pacific Coast. He was somewhat slow in getting started this year, but in the games that counted most Swan played the same brilliant brand of football that characterized his work last year.

In his freshman year, Swan was captain of "Huskey" Hunt's second yearling eleven. For three years he was also a high school star.

Swan, who is now married and lives in Palo Alto, is an economic major and a member of Kappa Alpha fraternity.

B. Schow 1025 Macdonald avenue. The original charges against the youths were reduced.

MAYOR'S NAME BROUGHT INTO MURDER PROBE

SALINAS, Nov. 25.—Mayor J. Herbert Madden of Sausalito, has been definitely brought into the Moss Landing affray case of last July 6.

The testimony of Manuel De Rosa of Redwood City, at the hearing of three men charged with the slaying of Deputy Sheriff N. H. Rader at Moss Landing, was to the effect that an escort of Simon Bube, one of the defendants, who was wounded in the battle, dropped the remark that it was "all right, we'll fix it up with Madden in Sausalito," when a San Francisco doctor refused to treat Bube without making a report to the police.

Authorities deem this testimony significant as Madden has been linked in the investigation by federal agents of rum-running activities in and out of the Marin county shore coasts. De Rosa, who harbored Bube at Redwood City, testified that Bube told him he was hired to guard against hijackers at Moss Landing, how he was wounded and taken to San Francisco and later treated in a Marin county hospital.

After the prosecution had finished questioning De Rosa, defense attorneys drew from him an admission that District Attorney A. W. Warth had promised him his freedom after the hearing. The De Rosa was prevailed upon to admit that Federal Agent Frank Chase had handed him a typewritten statement he made to the district attorney some time ago.

Charging that the witness was under duress, Defense Attorney Robinson succeeded in having the statement turned over to Justice of the Peace David Wallace. Wallace did not turn the statement Robinson as demanded, but said he would decide by Monday whether or not the defense is entitled to see it.

The refusal of Mrs. William H. Bowen, wife of a fugitive defendant, to testify and the testimony of City Marshall Al O'Connor of Sausalito, provided the other outstanding developments of today's hearing.

O'Connor said that on the morning of July 7, he was called and directed to a corner in Sausalito where he found Bube wounded. A man with Bube, according to the witness, said that Bube had dropped his gun and had been wounded accidentally.

LOCAL PLANT USES PATENTS COURT UPHELD

Decora Manufacturing Company Has Been Operating Under Patent 2 Years

INVENTED SPRAYING DEVICE

Painter Invented Paint Spraying Machine Eleven Years Ago

The United States District Court has made another millionaire. This time a San Francisco house painter is the fortunate person who is having a patent right upheld. He is Blake F. Hopkins who with his wife and three children makes his home in San Francisco.

Intense interest in the decision is felt in Richmond as the Decora Manufacturing Plant a local paint spraying plant manufacturing company has been paying royalties to Hopkins for some years. In fact the local company was the first to operate legally under the Hopkins patent. This patent obtained eleven years ago has since that time been infringed upon by half a dozen manufacturers throughout the country who have converted the patent to their own use according to the charges made by Hopkins.

According to Charles Renwick president of the Decora Company they realized when they started the manufacture of their spraying plants that Hopkins had the patent for the pressure tank securely sewed up.

Although the tank used by the local company is of its own individual design it was discovered that Hopkins thought of the idea a number of years ago and secured a patent right. According to Renwick it is practically impossible to design a tank for use on successful paint spraying machines without infringing on the basic patents held by Hopkins.

Two years ago the Decora company entered, on an agreement with Hopkins and since that time have been paying royalties on all tanks manufactured.

Not so with some of the other companies that have been using the patent. Not only did some of

REDUCE THE OVERHEAD

Reducing taxes seems to be in the air ever since Secretary Mellon and President Coolidge advocated it some time ago. Others have long been taking a similar view, but it was left with these influential gentlemen to do something about it. Already the republicans have made a decided cut in our income taxes, this because they cut off many millions of useless expenditures, making the old income tax rate unnecessary. The Wilson administration had put taxes into the sky, and from that lofty altitude the republicans have been pulling them down as expenses of running the government have been reduced by reason of correct financial methods. And so far has this reduction gone on that it is now possible to make a still farther cut, and one will certainly be made. There will be a cut in the federal inheritance tax, and probably the federal tax on automobiles will be repealed. It is all going to be very good for the business interests of the country, and for all classes of people. It runs in our mind that President Coolidge is making a mighty fine job of running the affairs of this nation. He is advocating less taxes, and with good reason, as we do not need them in the amounts of a few years ago. He talks sanely on all things he gives attention to. He is hard-headed and clear-minded, and it is our opinion that he will be the nominee of his party, to succeed in the position he now holds, and this is without opposition from the republicans. Naturally, there will be a democrat opposed to him in the election, maybe the nominee of a third party, but the votes will be for Coolidge. The country knows when it has a good man and will see to it that he is given the position again to keep the good work going on.—Iron Ore.

RELIGION FROM POLICE

A police officer is usually expected to wield a club in literal enforcement of the un-written law—not to probe for the ultimate cause of crime and suggest fundamental remedies.

Richard E. Enright, police commissioner of New York City, isn't content to be merely a club-swinging. He frankly admits the crime wave and looks beyond the actual criminal. He finds the cause of it in the state of mind of society as a whole, and proposes the same remedy that was advocated by President Coolidge.

"We must get back to religion," says the commissioner, "back to God, back to home life and prayer, back to the old home standards, back to personal supervision of child by parent, back to purity of standards of living."

"We must get away from irreverence for God, for home and for father and mother, away from irreverence for law, away from booze parties, petting parties, lascivious literature, false standard of life and all that leads to them."

Here, as every thoughtful person will probably admit, is the literal truth. And it puts the responsibility up to every individual instead of leaving it to the police, the clergy and the educators.

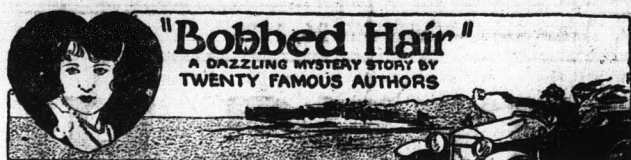

Simonds says France's capacity to pay will be known in a few days. Uncle Sam's capacity to wait may be known in a few centuries.—Houston Post-Dispatch.

SYNOPSIS

Connemara Moore has just died of the deck of the yacht, joining McTish in the waters of Long Island Sound. There had been a terrible fight aboard, following talk of bootleggers and revenue officers. Aunt Celimena, accompanied by Bing Carrington, Saltstall Adams and Brewster, the lawyer, is just leaving her Connecticut home—though it's after midnight—to search for Connie. The girl was to have announced her engagement tonight, but—disappeared.

CHAPTER XI—Continued

"I've thought of the very thing," he announced triumphantly. "Harry Harvey's got a motor boat that will take us to Bayville in no time. Harry's in Saratoga, but his engineer knows me, and he lives in the boathouse down by the inlet. You're not to worry, Miss Moore," he repeated soothingly. The role of protecting and advising Aunt Celimena was so novel that Bing couldn't resist playing with it from time to time. He had always had an uneasy conviction that the indomitable old lady preferred Salt to himself as a future nephew-in-law, which naturally did nothing to detract from his enjoyment of the present situation.

A winding country lane led from the Boston Post Road to the particular little inlet from the Sound they were headed for, and at the end of this they found Harry Harvey's boathouse readily enough, but no engineer. The motorboat, a fairly large one, was locked into a slip over which the boathouse straddled. The unforeseen absence of the engineer was disconcerting, but Bing was in a mood tonight to ride roughshod over obstacles, ethical or physical as the case might be, and he declared boldly that since there was no one to give permission, they must do without.

Mr. Brewster was inclined to demur at the forcible removal of another man's property, but his protests were swept aside without formality, and he found himself, somewhat to his own astonishment, following the resourceful Mr. Carrington, gingerly, through a broken window into the dark interior of the boathouse.

Salt and Aunt Celimena waited outside until the doors of the boathouse swung open, after which Bing once more disappeared into the darkness within, to loose the motor boat from its moorings.

The storm had blown over, but it was not until they were within sight of the Long Island shore that the moon broke through the clouds, conveniently in readiness to light their passage into Bayville.

Mr. Brewster pointed it out to Miss Celimena as complacently as though he, personally, were responsible for its reappearance.

"A good omen, my dear Miss Moore," he suggested, rubbing his thin hands ingratiatingly.

Miss Celimena ignored him. "What's that?" she demanded of no one in particular, lifting a hand for silence. Salt, who was near her, bent forward in a listening attitude.

The sound was repeated, and this time resolved itself into muffled shouting and a few straggling shots at what appeared to be no great distance from them; though, since the moon once more chose to retire behind the heavy wind clouds racing across the sky, it was impossible to see anything.

"Sounds as if rum runners were out tonight," Bing grunted. "Guess they're in a clash with some patrol boat."

Mr. Brewster was evidently of the same opinion, for he immediately began to urge Aunt Celimena to give up the expedition and order the Filomena's nose pointed back to Connecticut.

"My dear madam, there isn't the slightest need of your undertaking this wild-goose chase," he pleaded. "Let us go back, I beg of you, and these young men can—"

"Pish!" said Aunt Celimena with a brevity and decision that would have been cruder in anyone less naturally majestic. Unfortunately the full effect of the retort was somewhat marred by her having risen to her feet to peer into the darkness ahead, just as a particularly playful wave hit the Filomena's bow. Aunt Celimena sat down a little hurriedly for either dignity or comfort, and panted, glaring about her.

Bing shut off the engine, and they floated for a time, listening for a repetition of the sound of firing, which did not come. Then the moon made one of its periodic reappearances and showed them a motorboat only a few hundred yards away. She had no lights, and the irregular put-put of her exhaust spoke of trouble. She was distinctly down by the bow, and even in the uncertainty of moonlight and shadow it took no expert to see that she had been badly stove in. Evidently someone on board her caught sight of the Harvey boat at the same moment, for a vigorous hail came across the water, requesting the Filomena to stand by.

"I don't altogether like the look of this," Bing confided to Salt Adams under his breath, his face troubled. "But she's sinking, that's sure. We'll have to take 'em on board, whoever they are."

The other craft was heading directly for them now, laboring heavily, and Bing, leaving Salt to start their engine, went forward again to the wheel.

What happened next was as perplexing as it was unexpected. The navigator on the approaching boat suddenly put his helm hard over, so that the battered newcomer lay full in the path of the Filomena.

Bing, with no time to consider, instinctively selected the side that seemed to offer the better chance of passing, and swung his own wheel. For a moment it looked as though he would get by, but hope was short-lived. The nose of the Filomena grazed, jarringly, along the other craft's side, and Bing found himself sprawling in the bilge.

Before he could disentangle himself from Aunt Celimena, who had clutched him with determination at the moment of impact, a man climbed agilely over the Filomena's rail and swung himself down on the deck. He was a big man in a wet and torn jersey, and as Bing struggled to his feet he had a glimpse over one shoulder of a section of pipe, wielded by one of the brawny arms the jersey covered, descending deliberately in the direction of his own unprotected head. He also saw, to his amazement, that five or six bulky figures had followed the first over the side, and appeared to be hitting senselessly and indiscriminately at anything they saw moving.

Then the moonlight was obscured abruptly for Bing Carrington in a shower of red and golden stars, and, his feet slipping from under him, he shot head first over the Filomena's low rail.

The pipe welder had struck him a glancing blow, stunning him momentarily, but the plunge into the water revived him sufficiently to realize the advantages of the depths over the surface just then.

By the time bursting lungs had forced him to come up, he was fifty feet or more from the two boats and well in the shadow. A log was bobbing along in the path of the moonlight. Somebody on one of the boats caught sight of it, and immediately a revolver sang out several times, and two bullets splattered the water close to the log. The first, however, discovering his mistake, desisted, and Bing, with cautious intervals of swimming under water, made his way to the near-by shore. Behind him on the deck he had left so precipitately, pandemonium reigned for the space of a few long-drawn-out minutes, but at the end of that time the boarders, owing to the surprise of the attack and superior numbers, had things their own way, and proceeded to lay the two boats side by side.

There's one consolation in young Senator LaFollette. He can't behave any worse than they expect him to.

Royalties in excess of a million dollars are said to be due Hopkins by the companies who lost in the court battle instituted by Hopkins when he charged that seven companies made and sold thousands of machines at huge profits despite his patent.

Yesterday Judge Frank H. Kerrigan handed down a smashing decision in favor of the house painter and inventor, one of the few decisions ever handed down in which an inventor will benefit on a huge scale.

Judge Kerrigan not only validated the patent and ordered an injunction against the companies named, but ordered that "matters be referred to U. S. Commissioner Krull for ascertainment of damages."

Thanksgiving

WORDS mean little. The mumbled expression of thankfulness, no matter how long and no matter how fervent, will not suffice. Each of us owes more definite evidence of our gratitude for the richness of life. FIRST, we owe the appreciation of it in the only true way that is possible, by looking about in search of things to be grateful for, rather than by hugging to our hearts the few off-setting disappointments of life. SECOND, we can not hope to prove ourselves really grateful except by doing our part to pass on to others a little of that which we received from them.

FLIRTING WITH LOVE PLEASES AT RICHMOND

Superb entertainment is "Flirting With Love," the first National picture, co-starring Colleen Moore and Conway Tearle, which opened last night at the Richmond theatre for a two days run.

Based on Leroy Scott's story, "Counterfeit," this photoplay establishes tenderly the case of Gilda Lamont, played by Colleen Moore. There are perhaps hundreds of Gildas, who, like the Gilda of "Rigoletto," must suffer ignominy for sacrifice.

"Action" inadequately describes what follows fast and furiously. The camel's back has been broken and its attempts to pass through the eye of the needle could not be more entertainingly full of humor and pathos than Gilda's revenge upon Cameron.

Other features on the same program include "Oh Bridget," a Walter Hiers comedy; "Prizma," the screen magazine.

Gloria Swanson At Her Best in "Stage Struck"

The greatest actress of all time—that's the first title in "Stage Struck" at the California. And why not? For every thousand that have seen Duse, a million have raved over Gloria. The film starts like a million dollars.

Here comes the actress garbed in textiles and stones that would make Ganna Walska look like a ragpicker's step-child. The Palace of Versailles, exotic gowns the Opera Francaise, jewels, the Diamond Horseshoe, a delirium of applause, golden doors, galleons high, and everything in colors, at voning von Stroheim, in short.

Did the audience like it? They certainly did, and roared over the antics.

Other features on the same program include Walter Hiers in his latest comedy scream "Hot Doggie"; International News, Larry Canelo at the huge organ.

'Smiling George' O'Brien Comes To California in "Fighting Heart"

GEORGE O'BRIEN AND VICTOR MACLACHLAN IN "THE FIGHTING HEART" WILLIAM FOX SUPREME ATTRACTION

One piece of business in "The Fighting Heart," which opens at the California theatre next Friday, gave "Smiling George" O'Brien no little amount of trouble—to appear awkward with boxing gloves on his hands. The youthful Fox star, during his "hitch" in Uncle Sam's Navy in the world war, won the championship boxing honors of the Pacific Coast and therefore it is natural that he display dexterity in handling the padded mitts.

In certain scenes in "The Fighting Heart," George is supposed to be a green country lad seeking opportunity in a city gymnasium, and his trial bout marks the first time he feels the touch of boxing gloves.

Billy Dove, J. Farrell MacDonald, Diana Miller and James Marcus play the other featured roles and Bert Woodruff, Francis Powers, Harvey Clark and Hazel Howell round out the supporting cast. John Ford, director of "The Iron Horse," directed the picture.

Merry Widow Starts at Local Theatre Monday

The widely heralded Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture "The Merry Widow" is coming to the California theatre next Monday and Tuesday. It presents of the most significant combinations effected for the screen. It unfolds a picturesque romance of a gallant prince and a popular American dancer in a small continental kingdom, and in the hands of Erich von Stroheim, ideally suited to stage such a thing, the production is said to fulfill all that which was expected of it. The title role, entrusted to Mae Murray, furnishes this piquant actress with the best role of her career, and gives her full opportunity to display the charm, vivacity and talent for which she is so justly famous. John Gilbert who co-stars in this picture with Miss Murray gives a performance that brings him still further to the front as a popular idol. Von Stroheim has a recognized genius for selecting types that are remarkably fine actors, and then inspires them to do the best work of their careers. The result is that each character stands out like a rare intaglio. The cast includes such favorites as Roy D'Arcy, Tully Marshall, George Fawcett, Dale Fuller, Josephine Crowell, Estelle Clark, Don Ryan, Hugh Mack, Edward Connelly, George Nichols and Lon Foff.

NO, COMPANY'S NOT COMING

If you drop a dish cloth, company won't come, save as a matter of coincidence. Popular superstitions like this are losing ground; so is the superstition that there is something mysteriously better about "eastern" motor lubricants, merely because they cost more and are made in the east.

The Right Way to Judge Motor Oils More than ever, motorists are discovering that the test of an oil is not where but how it is made, and how it lubricates. That's why Zerolene—refined from selected western naphthenic base crudes—is today successfully lubricating more cars in the Pacific Coast states than any other oil made.

An Exclusive Process—What it Does Lubricating qualities have never been more carefully or successfully preserved than by the processes used at Standard Oil Company refineries for the refining of Zerolene—the Zerolene high-vacuum process, the Zerolene process of filtration through 40 tons of Florida Fuller's Earth, the refineries' 15 positive checks for quality!

What Zerolene Will Do For Your Car Zerolene will give your car better lubrication: it increases the gasoline mileage, reduces carbon-removal and maintenance costs and lengthens the life of any engine in which it is used. Why pay tribute to a superstition? Insist on Zerolene. Always ask for Zerolene by name.

Get the Facts! A series of independent and impartial reports showing the experience of large users with Zerolene motor oil has been collected in our booklet, "Why Pay Tribute to a Superstition?" Ask any Standard Oil Company representative or Zerolene dealer for a copy.

WALNUT PLANT TO BE DOUBLED

WALNUT CREEK, Nov. 25.—Nell Harrison, manager, announced yesterday that because every facility was taxed to its fullest capacity, this year, the plant of the Contra Costa Walnut Growers' Association will be entirely remodeled as soon as the present run is finished. A new warehouse will be built and machinery added, making the plant double its present size.

During the past week the walnut growers of the county handled 1,620,000 pounds, or about 810 tons of walnuts, worth approximately half a million dollars. The crop this year shows an increase of almost 18 per cent over 1924, which was 692 tons. With new orchards coming in and the present young trees growing heavier in their crop each year it is anticipated that next year's crop of walnuts will be much greater.

Chicago Bandits Obtain $50,000

CHICAGO, Nov. 25.—Armed bandits who were mistaken by bank detectives yesterday obtained $50,000 in cash, escaped after seriously wounding Patrick O'Shea, a police officer.

The robbery occurred in Packington. The money was being removed to a downtown bank, when the bandits held up the automobile containing five bank messengers and guards.

Three Million In Gas Taxes

During the past three months, gasoline taxes, collected from five big oil companies of California, totaled $3,300,839, the state board of equalization announced. Gasoline taxes for the past quarter will exceed those of the previous quarter by a large amount, officials of the board predict.

TWO FOOTBALL GAMES AROUSE MUCH SCANDAL

By THE DROPPED STITCH

Is Coach Enorh Bagshaw football mentor of the University of Washington is right in his declaration that raps against the Husky football team, are the result of "professional" jealousy?

At least an awful lot of trouble and scandal, resulting in probes and investigations and what not, have grown out of two Washington football games this year. They were the Leland Stanford and the University of California games.

First came the Stanford game on November 7, when the Cards were defeated 13 to 0. Immediately thereafter reports flew down the coast that rough and "dirty" playing had been largely responsible for the Cardinal defeat.

Now, nearly a month after the game has gone down in history, one Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, president of Stanford, starts an investigation into the report that the Huskies used steel in their shoulder pads, and otherwise violated rules.

Bagshaw retaliates by defying Dr. Wilbur to prove the assertion. Perhaps the University of Washington football team lived up to its name of "Husky" and the opposing players merely thought they were being hit by steel.

The same report holds true of the Husky-Bear game a week later and perhaps the same explanation holds true. Is it jealousy on the part of the supporters of Stanford and California that causes these reports?

At least Andy Smith of California, or Glenn Warner of Stanford, or any of the two teams have ever let a word drop about dirtiness on the part of Washington.

Another scandal, far greater than the steel shoulder pad affair arose immediately after the Bear lost to the Huskies, and this scandal threatens to leave an indelible smirch on the name of California.

It is the Jimmy Dixon affair. Ever since the Monday following the Washington game, when it was announced that Dixon would be out of the Big Game on account of injuries, rumors have rushed about.

Dixon was sore at Andy Smith for deciding in favor of Tut Imlay for the 1925 captaincy; Dixon slugged Smith and a half dozen players in the dressing room, after the Husky game, and numerous other reports have been rife. All are unverified.

Imlay and Smith still maintain that Dixon was out of the game on account of injuries. But this does not explain a telegram from Andy Smith, enroute to the East, advising inquirers to "ask Jimmy Dixon, HE KNOWS."

Football Squad Honored at Meet of Kiwanis Club

"Good Sportsmanship" was the topic of a talk delivered by Geo. Hjelte, playground instructor of Berkeley, before the Kiwanis club yesterday, when Coach Ivan Hill and the members of Richmond high school football team were entertained at luncheon.

The speakers stressed the growth of athletic appeal and pointed out that four things distinguished the sportsman from the sports attitude toward opponents, toward the officials, toward the game and toward the rules.

An account of his impression of Kiwanis clubs of the north coast, which he visited while on a trip to Seattle, were given by Frank Woten, Clare Horner reported on the dinner at the Fairmont hotel, San Francisco last Saturday night, Edward Kearney, chairman of the day, called upon Captain William Milicevich and Coach Hill for speeches and John Dalton led the yells. Mrs. Ross Calfee rendered vocal selections.

Prison Board Meets Friday

Two hundred separate cases, including more than 70 parole applications, will be acted upon by the State Board of Prison Directors when they meet Friday and Saturday at San Quentin prison. This will be one of the most important meetings of the board this year.

Besides the parole pleas, the board will decide upon 118 intermediate sentences and will attempt to grant "Christmas paroles" to convicts whose paroles do not become effective until January of next year.

William F. Morrish of Berkeley, is chairman of the board since the resignation of George Van Smith. The board will meet at Folsom prison on December 4 and at that time will consider 38 more parole applications.

POLICEMEN'S ANNUAL DANCE BIG SUCCESS

Every detail went off swimmingly at the Policemen's annual relief fund benefit ball at East Shore park last night, and the committee declares it was the most successful affair in the history of the department.

Although dancing was the principal diversion of the evening, there were numerous stunts by members of the departments, special musical numbers and singing by H. H. Mylander. In fact there was something doing every minute from the time Dennis Shaw and his staff of expert symphonists struck up the first strain at 9 o'clock, until the wee hours of Thanksgiving morning.

All roads led to East Shore park last night and a large portion of the throng of 1500 who purchased tickets to the dance, wended their way to the scene of activities, ably directed by the signals of the minions of the law. Harry C. Donnelly, general chairman, was elated last night by the success of the undertaking and declared it was without a doubt the largest and most enjoyable affair the police department of Richmond has ever staged.

"Chinatown" Dance Arrangements Are Completed Here

Everything is ready for "A Night in Chinatown" to be held in the Memorial ballroom, Saturday evening. The affair is to be a treat for the patrons of the regular dances held there by the board of directors.

A party of ten young Chinese men from the Chinese National Athletic Association will come to Richmond from San Francisco and put on a real Chinese program.

About twenty-five dollars will be given in door prizes, which consists of an eight dollar tea set of seventeen pieces, a set of six cups and saucers, two serving trays, a flower bowl, a salt, pepper, mustard and toothpick set in tray, a fancy tea pot and three Chinese tea pots.

The Barry-Bibbins seven piece dance orchestra will be on hand with special music for the occasion and a large crowd is expected to enjoy the rare treat.

Thanksgiving Day and Milk

OUR PROUD REPUTATION

That the Purity Creamery of Richmond is one of the best conducted and most sanitary plants in the state was the opinion of speakers who sponsored the new milk ordinance before the city council.

Dr. Blake and others spoke in high terms about the local creamery which is said to have passed all state inspections with high scores under the pure food act. It has always merited the very best reports, it was said.

Those who are enjoying good health have much to be thankful for.

Folks who drink plenty of pure milk usually enjoy top-notch health with lots of energy.

On this day of thanksgiving be sure that milk is a part of your daily menu.

Drink our pure milk regularly.
